The sixth-year guard, his team stinking in their season-opening win over the Los Angeles Clippers, has been pondering his options of where he should play in his Rockets career. Should he come to the conclusion that he is a point guard, could the Rockets move him to the shooting guard spot to accommodate Chris Paul? What about the Celtics, who always had a spot available for their star point guard, Rajon Rondo, who passed away, despite the fact that he was a designated point guard? There are many options, Harden said at a media availability at the Toyota Center on Thursday, when asked if he was still mulling it over and, if so, what the deciding factor was. “Not really,” Harden said. “I’m just waiting on my guys and their game. I
